Now You Can Come and Go

WHEN there's an entertainment at the church—or a good show in town, or a dance, or a party at the home of a distant neighbor—then you will be glad to own a Harley-Davidson. You'll find a dozen good uses for it during the day, of course, but when the day's task is done and you are too tired to enjoy walking or driving, then you really enjoy your

Harley-Davidson

With a sidecar (detachable in a few minutes) the Harley-Davidson becomes a family vehicle, a year-around source of fresh air recreation—wonderfully soothing to tired nerves and muscles. Considering all that the Harley-Davidson Motor-cycle with sidecar will mean to you, it is really a waste for you to own one and not to do without. Arrange for a demonstration today.

COUNTY SUPERVISORS

The Board of Supervisors met in regular session Monday, April 9th, at 10 a. m., there being present Dr. C. V. Thompson, presiding, Thomas L. Hickey, Wm. H. Brown, John MacBain and Jos. M. Francis.

The usual agreement, with the Tourist Association of Central California for promoting tourist travel to San Mateo county and advertising the county in general throughout the East was presented and read.

Supervisor MacBain reported that there was $700 in the fund set aside for advertising and on his motion seconded by Hickey the county auditor was authorized to draw a warrant for $600 as part payment on the $1,200, the amount the county agreed to pay the tourist association for carrying on the advertising campaign.

The agreement itself was ordered filed by Chairman Thompson.

Supervisor MacBain reported that the La Honda road in his district had been damaged by heavy traffic for a distance of 500 feet and asked permission to have the necessary repairs made out of his own road fund. The permission was granted on motion of Brown seconded by Francis.

The following persons having complied with the county ordinance, were granted dance permits, on motion of Hickey seconded by Francis: Jack Mori, Rockaway Beach; John Foppiano Jr., Millbrae.

The following application for dance permits will be acted upon a week hence:

Joe. S. Miguel, Miramar; Henry Partington, Millbrae.

A communication was received from the president of the Lomita Park Improvement Club asking the board to do all in its power to expedite matters with reference to the sidewalk work in Lomita Park.

Supervisor Hickey reported that the attorneys for the firm that had secured the contract for constructing the sidewalks had informed him that they had found objections and irregularities in the proceedings and for that reason the contractors were unwilling to go ahead with the work.

District Attorney Swart, who was called in the matter stated that he had found that the resolution of intention for the work and the plans and specifications conflicted in several instances. He further stated that he had arranged a meeting with the improvement club's attorney and the contractor's representatives in his office on Wednesday, when the entire situation would be gone over with the idea of straightening out the difficulties.

On motion of MacBain seconded by Hickey the matter was thereupon ordered laid over until the next meeting of the Board, April 16.

The report of County Auditor J. J. Shields showing the amount of funds that can be drawn against the several road funds was received and ordered filed.

The report of Miss Anne Belle Bailey showing expenditures of $247.58 for the month of March was received and ordered filed.

Supervisor MacBain addressed the board and suggested in view of the fact that the new jail was now completed, that it would be appropriate to set aside a special day for an inspection of the institution. On motion of MacBain seconded by Hickey it was ordered that the chairman appoint a committee of three to take hold of the matter, arrange a date for the inspection, which was to be made public, and the clerk was directed to send out invitations to the State Board of Charities and Corrections.

Chairman Thompson thereupon appointed Supervisors MacBain, Brown and Hickey to serve on the committee.

A claim of R. E. Johnson of Redwood City against Newsome & Hennings, jail contractors, was received and ordered filed.

Supervisor Hickey addressed the board in reference to the claim of the city of San Bruno against the county for the rent of a building at that place that had been used as a jail. On motion of MacBain seconded by Hickey former action of the board in rejecting the above claim was ordered rescinded, the claim allowed, and the clerk was directed to notify the San Bruno authorities that no more claims would be paid for the rental of the building.

The usual claims against the county were allowed and ordered passed on motion of Brown seconded by Thompson.

The board adjourned at 11:48 a. m., to meet Monday, April 16th.

MISS GERTRUDE DOWNIE DIES IN AUTO ACCIDENT

Miss Gertrude Downie of Oakland, who was killed in an automobile accident at Modesto last Saturday, was well known in this county. She taught for two years at Montara and last year was elected by the trustees of the Woodside school to teach there but she had been previously elected to teach at Modesto and could not accept the former place.

Miss Downie was a graduate of the Chico Normal School. Her parents are not living, but she is survived by two sisters, Mrs. Belle Reed, 1020 Sixty-third street, Oakland, and Mrs. H. L. Staples of Halfmoon Bay, and a brother in San Francisco.

CONGRESSMAN E. A. HAYES EXPLAINS HIS VOTE

Congressman E. A. Hayes, who voted against President Wilson's war resolution, has written the Times-Gazette explaining his vote. He declares that he is opposed to compulsory war service. His statement is as follows:

"With President Wilson's frankly avowed intention of sending our boys who should be chosen upon the principle of universal liability to service out of their own country, and into an alien land, under strange and terrible conditions, ringing in my ears, I felt I could not support the war resolution.

"It gave no choice to those who were compelled to leave school, business and home, at the behest of their country, as to whether they wanted to go to the trenches of Europe or not.

"I would willingly equip and finance all who volunteered to go, but I will never compel the unwilling service of my own or another's boy in foreign lands except for preservation of the United States."

DUCK HUNTING REMINISCENCES

Story No. Six by Claude Fox Depicting Game Bird Life On Bay and Marshes.

The day of the shooting match dawned bright and clear, a typical Thanksgiving morn. Breakfast was over a little early, or rather it was swallowed hurriedly. "Bill" was waiting for me over at the old corner. He had four other boys engaged in a game of marbles and as it was only eight o'clock I made the sixth player.

Now myself and "Bill" always stood in together, played in cahoots. You boys know what that means. After the game we divided up what we had won. But this particular morning things were going against us. It was nearing the hour of nine o'clock. "Bill" proposed we play six up, that is each of us put up six marbles for the last game. We all agreed. I knew full well what was coming. Thirty-six nice new purs were in the ring. "Bill" had a stick in his hand and was making a bluff at marking the lines of the ring more plainly. He gave me a knowing wink with that sharp eye of his. The rest of the boys were down at the tailwain. "Grab stakes" "Bill" yelled. There was a mad scramble with he and myself underneath, but we managed to get thirty of those purs into our pockets, and throwing the other boys off we started like two wild rabbits around the corner and down through the brown, dry tawered to our objective point, where we could see quite a crowd had already gathered.

As we scurried along down an old cow path, we almost ran over Danny Mullen, who had stooped over to tie the string on one of his shoes. Now, I know you readers anticipate that he had a corn or violin with him. Far from it. With a powder flask strapped over one shoulder, a shot pouch over the other and carrying one of those old double-barrel shot guns, the muzzle of which, when the butt was on the ground, towered a foot above his head. Should you meet him now, with all the flags flying, as we saw him then, you would say he was Preparedness Personified. But he was heading for the slaughter of the innocents, and he secured one of those old barnyard roosters before the day was over.

When we reached the grounds preparations were all in readiness for the start. Four big crates of old time hens and roosters stood on the ground, a rope waist high had been drawn across and at a distance which the man in charge called fifty yards, the first victim, a big black rooster, stood tied by one leg to a stake with a piece of bale rope about four feet long. Way down on the edge of the marsh, 250 yards away, was a turkey gobler tied to a similar stake, and Frank and Henry Yount, Old Ignacio, were looking over the sights on their rifles preparatory to claim that bird as their own. Over where the old jail stands the McEvoy and Eikerkotter boys, with Will Hanson were getting ready to shoot live pigeons out of the little green pyramid traps, which by pulling a cord would throw the bird into the air and give it half a chance to get away.

The crowd was getting larger. Not half as much interest would have been taken in a circus. Along came a bunch of the old timers, who have now passed on into the dark shadow. Dennis Leary, Jim Stafford, John Hanley, John Poole, Harry Thompson, Judge Bicknell, Lyman and Dave Sampson, Patrick Culien, Matthew Hedge, James Crowe, my father and uncle Chet.

There were others present at that shooting match, who, thank God, have been spared to a community of which they are our best citizens, Charles Gould and James Hannon, both old timers, besides John Curran and George Holden, two of the most enthusiastic fans who sat on the bleachers at last Sunday's ball game.

Lon Cook was a pretty busy man that day. One thing early attracted my attention when "Bill" and I reached the grounds. On the rear of the lot on which stood the "Poplar Saloon" was a tight-board fence. Three or four of the boards had been knocked off and already a well worn trail led from the shooters' stand where the coops lay to that opening in the fence. Men were passing back and forth along that trail, but it did not concern me much. "Bill" and myself were too busy with other matters.

The cherished gun was in sight. How eagerly we watched father and my uncle take it out of its case and put it together. Gee, the excitement was becoming intense. Everybody was bragging about their own guns. Some one in the crowd called out 10 o'clock. Now for the fun. I thought it such then, but now it would appear to me to be nothing but cruelty and I would feel heartily ashamed of myself for ever thinking of shooting a poor old rooster tied to a stake.

The first man to shoot was stepping up to the rope. Boys were supposed to stay away back, but you know what boys are. "Bill" and I were soon in a position where we could take in everything. Bang—the ball had opened. That big black rooster jumped in the air, shook his wings and rather appeared to enjoy it. Eleven shots were fired before he was laid out. Another one was staked out, but Eddie Eikerkotter got him the second shot. As fast as one man stepped away from the shooter's stand another was ready with his loaded gun. The shooting had been going on for about an "hour, when some one yelled out "more ammunition," and a sudden exit took place from the shooter's stand along the trail to the opening in the fence. "Bill" and myself waited patiently for the crowd to come back. Now I knew Lon Cook as I did every man, woman and child in the town at that time, but never heard of him being in the powder business and the nearest shot tower was in San Francisco. While I was pondering the matter over in my mind, Nelson Padlock, who was waiting to take a shot informed me that the concussion of the guns was so great the shooters required a little nerve before going on with the next bombardment. Yes, Cook was a busy man that day.

In a few minutes they were back and at it again. Roosters were not dying very fast and at 25 cents a shot the man in charge seemed well pleased.

Along toward noon a great big grey bird was put up. From the size of his spurs he must have been chief of the ranch from which he came for many years. He was so large that they all wanted him. Father and my uncle had two which cost them about six dollars, but everybody had to take a shot at the big fellow, and shoot they did. Thirty shots had been fired and the old grey fellow still stood a martyr, if ever there was one. "Bill" and I moved over to where my uncle was showing the gun to some one. Father saw me. "Come," he said, "Claude take a shot, you might kill him." I hesitated. "Bill" urged me to go ahead. Anything my first pal said went with me. Uncle Chet loaded the gun, while Father paid the necessary quarry. Stepping up to the rope I tried to take aim. Well can I remember how heavy that gun seemed to be. Lowering it to rest my arms I tried again. "Aim high" said "Bill," who was right behind me. This time I got aim and pulled the trigger. There was a mighty shout from the crowd. "Bill" was dancing up and down patting me on the back and yelling at the top of his voice "You've got him; you've got him." The smoke from the black powder prevented me from seeing at first, but when it cleared, I could see that old grey rooster kicking his last. A lucky chance shot—that was all it was. A No. 6 had struck him in the head. Chet wanted me to have the gun right away, but father had to keep his promise to mother. Some one yelled "more ammunition," and the men flew away through the opening in the fence, while "Bill" and I ran down the field to watch the pigeon shooters, tickled to death and happy in the knowledge that by a lucky shot when he told me to "aim high" no further disappointment awaited us over the possession of the gun. Yes, that was a great day for "Bill" and for myself. It was also a busy day for Lon Cook.

PLEADS GUILTY TO CHARGE SENT TO PHILIPPINES

Justo Dellosa, the Filipino who was charged with committing rape at Moss Beach last July and who was arrested on February, pleaded guilty to the charge in the superior court last week, was sentenced by Judge Buck on Thursday afternoon. He was given his choice of serving a county jail sentence or be sent back to the Philippine Islands. He chose the latter and will be sent back by the first steamer leaving San Francisco. When asked by the court if he had anything to say why the sentence should not be passed, Dellosa arose and made a most eloquent plea for leniency. He said that he had made his own way in the world coming from his own country to San Francisco he had worked his way through the Lowell High School, winning the medal at his graduation. He then attended the state university at Berkeley and had finished his freshman year when he committed the act which he was not altogether to blame. He pleaded that he be given an opportunity to begin life anew and be permitted to complete his studies so that he might be able to make good. Dellosa promised the court that he would make good if given an opportunity. James T. O'Keefe, representing Dellosa, presented the court with several letters written by the young lady in the case showing the part she had taken in the unfortunate matter. The court said he would like to be lenient in the case but he would not admit any charge with the crime of rape to probation. The court said he had received many letters from various parties in San Francisco who commended the good character of the accused.

The board after considerable discussion and much debate purchased the old ball field containing three acres of land on El Camino Real for an athletic field. The property is to be used for an athletic field for the high school, however, it may also be used by all school children and by the public generally. For some time the board of trustees have been looking around for a suitable parcel of land for this purpose and after investigating a number of pieces of property decided to buy the old ball grounds. The Sunday games now being held on the diamond there will not be interfered with. So the baseball fans need not worry.

The sum of $16,000 was paid for this choice property. All real estate men say the price is very reasonable. The property was bought from Edward McGary, who has owned it for some years. The trustees are thinking seriously of appointing a physical instructor for the high school and have that matter under consideration and may decide to select such an instructor for the next semester.
